THE TOWN MOUSE AND THE COUNTRY MOUSE

(Based on Aesop's fable)

One day the Country Mouse invited his friend the Town Mouse to visit him in the country. The Country Mouse was happy to come. The Country Mouse prepared dinner. The Town Mouse ate and then said: »I don't like this food. It's very poor.« The Town Mouse then slept in the Country Mouse's bed. In the morning he said: »I don't like your house very much. It looks very poor and the bed is very small. It's too dark and too quiet here, too.« »Come on,« said the Country Mouse. »Let's find some food! They walked for a while and then the Town Mouse said: »I don't like the country at all. The grass is too long and too wet. My trousers are wet, too.« They met a cow in the field. »Oh no,« said the Town Mouse. »It's just a cow, it's big but not dangerous,« said the Country Mouse. The Town Mouse found the country very strange. It was interesting, but he didn't like it very much. »I'm going home now,« said the Town Mouse. »I like my town better.« So he invited his friend the Country Mouse to visit him in the town the next day and said goodbye.

The next day the Country Mouse went to the town. First he saw lots of people in the street. »It's very crowded and noisy,« said the Country Mouse. »I don't like it very much.« The Town Mouse offered a lot of different food to the Country Mouse. »This food is strange, too. It's good, but I'm not used to it,« said the Country Mouse. The Town Mouse then prepared a bed for the Country Mouse to sleep in. But the Country Mouse didn't sleep well. In the morning he said: »Your bed is very soft and big, but it's noisy and there is too much light. I don't like it very much.« »Let's get some food,« said the Town Mouse to the Country Mouse. They went to the kitchen, but suddenly a huge black cat started running after them. »Quick! Get some food and run!« shouted the Town Mouse to the Country Mouse. The cat almost got them. The Country Mouse said: »It's interesting here in town, but I like the country better. It's nice and quiet there. I'm going home.« The Country Mouse said goodbye and ran home. He closed the door of his country home and said: »It's good to be home again!«
